A conference for international members from academia, social enterprises, charities, industry, and government to present their work to a multi-disciplinary audience; to exchange experiences; discuss proposals; and to share cutting-edge ideas on women's and gender studies today.

An international forum for debate and the exchange of ideas about the main challenges facing women in today's society, and to reflect on the ways in which we can, individually and collectively, propose solutions and act to help to improve the lives of women around the world.

A platform to publish relevant work related to the topics of the conference, on a free e-book.
